Town updates phone app

The Town of Drayton Valley updated their mobile application to allow citizens and staff to report civic issues including graffiti, illegal dumping and waste collection as they encounter them from their mobile devices. The problem reporting module will allow the town to capture these types of requests electronically, making service to citizens more efficient and cost effective.

The problem reporting module allows citizens to follow a step-by-step process for identifying and reporting civic issues, including adding an optional photo and the address of the issue as provided by the phone's GPS capabilities. Citizens can follow up on their problem report based on the confirmation number provided at the conclusion of their form submission.

"With the release of this problem reporting module we hope to hear from our citizens about civic issues as soon as they are identified," said Mayor Glenn McLean. "With this update, we are trying to improve response times for services offered throughout Drayton Valley."

Free Money Party held at Rotary House

Rotary House was the place to be during the afternoon of June 24 when Drayton Valley PCSS hosted a free money party from 2 to 8 p.m. in the board room at Rotary House.

PCSS Program Director Lela Strand explained that the free money party was held to encourage parents to open a Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP) for their children and to learn more about free education money.

Strand said that if a child was born in 2004 and if the parent receives the National Child Benefit Supplement (aka family allowance) that child could be eligible for a Canada Learning Bond. This gives a child $500 to start until the child is 15 for a maximum of $1,500. There is also a grant to apply for, but it is being cancelled. Called the Alberta Centennial Education Savings Grant (ACES), it provides $500 to a child born in 2005 or later who lives in Alberta.

Parents were asked to bring identification for their selves and Social Insurance Numbers for themselves and their children.

While the parents were busy with representatives from seven different banking institutions in Drayton Valley, the children were entertained with a bouncy house, face painting by Odella the Clown and snacks of food and water.

Wait. What? A kid in a cardboard box?

Normally there would be nothing unusual about a kid in a cardboard box, except that the kid and box were loose in the back of a speeding car driven by the kid's mother. When the police officer stopped the car near Aldred on June 23, the mom said her son refused to sit in his car seat and wanted to play in the box instead. The officer had it right when he said "It was obvious who was in charge of things in that vehicle - but the adult got the ticket."

There are two things very wrong with this scenario, the first one being the question of who's running the show in the home? It's clearly not the mother, but that boils down to parenting issues and permissiveness.

The second issue is much more serious - distracted driving at its worst. Was the mom paying attention to her driving or her son in the cardboard box while speeding down the highway? The answer is probably her son because the clearly didn't look at her speedometer before being stopped by the police. Had this woman had to make a sudden stop or had the car flipped over, her son and the box would have become projectiles inside the vehicle, hitting the mother as the vehicle flipped, or they would have been ejected through one of the windows. In either case, nobody wins. In our communities, distracted drivers are easily seen on a daily basis. Substitute the cardboard box for a cell phone or a meal from a fast food outlet and the effect is much the same as the kid in the box, except that these drivers tend to not look up at signal lights when they turn green or go so slowly, they become a hazard while following other cars or turning corners. Often times they are simply speeding down the highway with cell phones glued to their faces. Apparently, it's too much to ask drivers to stop with all the distractions and simply pay attention to their driving.

What would it take to change these bad habits?

Obviously increasing the amount of fines for distracted driving is not working. Perhaps taking these drivers' vehicles away for a day or two would be more successful than simply paying a fine, which may seem like a minor inconvenience if they have the money to pay for fines.

These driving distractions have got to end before some innocent person dies on the road, be it in their own communities or on the major highways.

Forgive yourself

Justine's Journey
Justine Kimoden

I am human. I make mistakes. As much as it is difficult for me to accept that, I am and I do. I have been so hard on myself lately and very unforgiving for mistakes that I have done out of carelessness. I did not want to hurt anyone especially people who are so close to me. I have said things I should not have said. These things I said are true and it is exactly how I was feeling. I did not think that what I had to say can potentially hurt someone else.

What should have I done in that situation? Would it have been better for me to keep quiet and bottle it up or did I do the right thing by saying what I said? Would I rather regret not saying it or regret saying it? Either way, I will regret it in the end. What now?

I can blame it on my ability to speak two languages. I can say it had gotten lost in translation and I made a poor choice on words. I can blame it on technology and say I of what I said is what drives me insane. That is the reason why I am being too hard on myself and have been so unforgiving. I would say it again. I am human. I make mistakes. As much as I want the people involved to forgive me and start over again, I want to forgive myself. I think I need my own forgiveness more than those people who I have hurt. I feel that once I forgive myself I would be okay, and I would not have to worry about other people's forgiveness, because forgiving myself matters more to me than other people's forgiveness. If I forgive myself, then it will be easier for me to accept the mistake I made and move on.

I guess the biggest lesson I have learned from this mistake, aside from forgiveness of oneself, is that honesty comes with a price. I will always be honest but I will wait for the right time to say things I have to say.

Letter to the editor

Why the inequities?

It was interesting to read the editorial in the Rocky Mountain House weekly newspaper, the Mountaineer (April 28, 2015) comparing the collaborative efforts of Clearwater County, the Town of Rocky Mountain House and the Village of Carleton Place to the very different situation with Brazeau County, the Town of Rocky Mountain House and the Village of Carleton Place.

Certainly, our neighbours in Clearwater County should be applauded for their collaborative thinking. The only problem with these success stories is that they are so very tentative. Brazeau County Council has done a 180° turn from where it was in September 2014, when the Town and the County were talking regional cooperation and priority setting at a facilitated workshop session. This is one of the fundamental problems with the status quo of expecting urban and rural municipalities to come to their own agreements on cost/revenue sharing. Any progress that may be made towards a fair agreement can be undone by a change in Council or the unceremonious ousting of a CAO.

At issue, too, is the fact that the counties have all of the power since they are entitled to the industrial tax revenue. The onus is on towns and villages to prove they are worthy and truly needing of the counties' resources. It would be unfair to place blame on the counties for wanting an accounting of every expenditure, an explanation for overruns, and the right to question every financial decision that their urban neighbours make as they have been put in the enviable position of having stewardship over the industrial tax bounty that they are being asked to share.

But what ends up happening is that the villages and towns lose autonomy because they are accountable to a second council. It is not uncommon to hear comments from county residents questioning the budgets and spending habits of villages and towns, as if to say if only they were more savvy with their own resources, they wouldn't need any of "our" money. How about we put the shoe on the other foot? If counties were more cautious and frugal about their own spending, there would be more to share.

There is no question that there is revenue inequality between rural and urban municipalities, and it is heartening to see the progress made with our neighbours in Clearwater to fairly address that inequality. A friend of mine says, though, it is like being in an abusive relationship. Villages and towns feel hopeful that it will be different this time, but there will likely be another black eye coming somewhere down the road. It should not come as a surprise then, when the Province has had enough and steps in to force amalgamations or collects and pools the industrial tax revenue to reallocate as it sees fit. The PCs were ousted because Albertans could no longer stomach the greed, arrogance, and sense of entitlement that came to define them. With a new government in power and a new Minister of Municipal Affairs at the helm, the day of reckoning for rural municipalities may be at hand, and we could all end up paying the price for their greed, arrogance, and sense of entitlement.

Most drivers beginning to slow down after radar sign posted on 55th Avenue

Cathy Wheatman
Western Review

Most drivers in Drayton Valley are getting the message not to speed through town, and particularly school zones, but it took a lot of issued traffic tickets in order to do it.

Appearing at the Drayton Valley council meeting on June 24 was Pam Balke, By-law Officer for the town, with statistics compiled from March of this year when a radar speed sign was posted along 55th Avenue.

In March, 10,400 vehicles were monitored, with the average speed clocked at 42 kph. The total number of vehicles exceeding the posted speed was 1,193 or 12 per cent, with peak speed captured at 118 kph.

In April, 36,993 vehicles were monitored with the average speed clocked at 43 kph. Of those vehicles, 4,220 exceeded the posted speed limit, again 12 per cent, with the peak speed captured at 169 kph. For May, 39,576 vehicles were monitored, with the average speed noted at 42. Of that number of vehicles, 4,239, or 11 per cent, exceeded the posted speed, with one peak speed capture at 133 kph.

June saw 11,120 vehicles monitored, at an average speed of 42 kph, and of those, 1,390 exceeded the speed limit, with the peak speed noted at 102 kph.

Under a Traffic Safety Initiative held from May 10 to June 4, the actual number of tickets issued for May was 1,105, 84 of them for Drayton Valley residents and 264 for non-resident addresses. Due to the cutoff of four weeks back from June 4, an additional 364 warning tickets were issued.

Three hundred and three tickets were duplicates and were not issued, as one one ticket was issued per plate number for May. Balke reported that a few drivers had as many as five tickets in the system while one licence plate was caught nine times. To that information, Mayor McLean stated, "Nine times? That's a disturbing trend."

Eight hundred fifty-five warning tickets were also issued, according to Balke.

"We noticed people are slowing down in the school zones," said Balke, during a question period that followed, although the town is still having some problems with residential parking, she noted. Because homeowners rent out rooms in their houses, sometimes there are up to eight vehicles parked outside in the street.

Councillor Graham Long said he heard rumours that tickets are being given to drivers who have gone only two or three kilometres over the speed limit, and asked if that were true.

Balke replied that wasn't true here because there are very strict parameters who must follow regarding speeds.

PUBLIC SAFETY ANNOUNCEMENT
The fire department reminds the public to practice water safety this summer. Drowning is one of the leading causes of unintentional death in children ages one to four and men ages 15 to 44. Drownings can occur in backyard pools, indoor pools, bath tubs, or at the beach. Infants and toddlers drown mainly in bath tubs and pools. Older children and youth drown mainly in large bodies of water. Alcohol consumption is usually a factor in water-related fatalities in adults.

Parents are reminded to always supervise their children near or in the water.

Non-swimmers are required to wear life jackets to assist them. In addition, everyone in a boat must also be required to wear life jackets.

Backyard pools must have adequate barriers in place to assist them. In addition, everyone in a boat must also be required to wear life jackets.

The fire department also reminds the public to never underestimate the power of a current as swimmers and waders can be swept away in an instant. It is advised to swim inshore and not back to where you came from.

Never swim alone and do not dive or jump if the depth of the water is unknown.

WHY DO I HEAR BUT NOT UNDERSTAND?

Did you know that 47% of adults age 60-79 have hearing loss?

Your hearing difficulties could be caused by damaged hearing hair cells inside your inner ear (cochlea). When damage occurs in the high-frequency areas of the cochlea, speech may sound garbled and comprehension may become difficult.

A comprehensive hearing assessment will identify the challenges you face and what can be done to help improve your hearing. It only takes 60 minutes, you don't need a referral from your doctor, and there's no cost or obligation whatsoever.

Actors needed for 24-hour musical

Justine Kimoden
Western Review

The River Valley Players (RVP) are putting on a 24-hour musical on July 18 at the Frank Maddock High School Drama Room and the club is looking for twenty participants.

"The idea came to us from Brayden Scobie who had done something similar while he was at Red Deer College," said RVP secretary Allie Spicer-Bless. "We have taken this idea and plan to carry it out in our own way. It will not be identical as our circumstances are different but the basic principle is the same, to put on a musical theatre show in 24 hours from start to performance."

It will be the club's first time to put on a 24-hour musical and they are looking for committed participants.

"We are very interested in seeing how the process works and from this we will decide whether to do it again. The level of commitment required to put on a full musical is huge and not for everyone," Spicer-Bless said. "Also, the mandate for our full musical is family entertainment involving both adults and youth from our area. We will be putting on a full musical in 2016 as planned. However, we felt this activity may provide a great vehicle for those who would like to do something musical but cannot commit to weeks and weeks of rehearsals. It will also be an adults only activity so that we can present musicals that would not fit the family-friendly mandate."

When asked what kind of musical RVP is going to put on, Spicer-Bless said the audience will just have to wait until the day of the show.

"We will not be using a script, libretto, or sheet music so this will not be a musical in the traditional sense. However, we do have a very clear method of how we will pull this off," she said. "A musical has been selected but this will be a closely guarded secret until the night of July 18 as we do not want anyone coming with preconceived ideas or preparation. The production team supporting the 24-hour musical will be able to make some background preparations but that is all."

Spicer-Bless encourages anyone who may be interested in participating to contact her through text at (780) 514-9182 or through e-mail at alliespicer@hotmail.com.

"We welcome any adult who enjoys singing, who is not afraid to improvise and perform in front of an audience, and is willing to be a part of the process and take some risks," she said. "This will be a super fun activity to be a part of and we are looking for people who will be excited and enthusiastic to be a part of it. We would prefer 18 years and over. However, if someone exceptional who is not quite 18 presents themselves, the committee may agree to include them."

Tickets to the show will be available at the door for $2. Doors open at 7 p.m. and show starts at 7:30 p.m.

Who's up for a block party?

Cathy Weetman
Western Review

Who's up for a block party?

If you live in Drayton Valley, the answer is anybody who wants to have one, with the blessing and support of Drayton Valley and District Family and Support Services (PCSS).

"We've been promoting block parties for several years and we'll continue to do so because they are an opportunity for neighbours to connect with one another," said PCSS program director Lola Strand.

She added because Drayton Valley is such a busy community, people rarely get time to know their neighbours, what they do and where they live. By getting to know them, it's an opportunity to keep an eye out for any suspicious activity around each other's homes.

There are also other benefits of holding a block party, according to Strand. "It's a building block to establish trust and friendship among community members. It brings a sense of belonging to all members of the community. It increases safety/crime prevention in the community by helping children (and adults) distinguish between a neighbour and a stranger. It encourages neighbours to share in the responsibility of looking after the neighbourhood. It provides an opportunity to meet some of the older neighbours and learn about their community's history, and lastly, it provides an opportunity for new residents to be welcomed into the community in a relaxed and informal setting."

For each block party held, PCSS offers $150 to go toward it. Organizers can then decide how they want to spend that money. In the past, said Strand, some organizers spent it on t-bono steaks while party-goers bring salads and desserts. Others have purchased hot dogs and chips, while still others spent their money renting a bouncy house.

Strand noted PCSS offers a block party resource kit, which includes information about the different types of block parties, time lines for organizers, planning committee meeting tips and tasks to delegate and suggestions for activities ranging from face painting to trivia games and a talent contest. The kit also provides information about making up flyers to distribute throughout the neighbourhood.

While a block party is a fun event for the neighbourhood, Strand cautions in order to avoid red tape and potential trouble, it's best to hold it on a driveway, in someone's backyard or a public park - just not on a public street because it could lead to potential safety and insurance issues. She also recommends organizers wanting to hold a block party in a public park should check with the Town of Drayton Valley's by-law officer for permits, and the fire department if they want to add fireworks to the festivities.

Strand added neighbourhoods can hold their block parties any time during the year, and if they need help making their parties successful, they can contact the PCSS office at 780-514-2204 for support.

Rural residents in Brubeau County aren't left out of the block party loop because a series of them are being held this spring and summer. These are hosted by the Drayton Valley Rural Area Crimewatch group at various community halls around the county.

According to Crimewatch President Marcel Lapointe, the first block party was held in May at the Violet Grove Community Hall, at which volunteers served some 70 hamburgers and 36 hotdogs.

"The purpose of these is to get to know your neighbours," said LaPointe, who was busy serving up another block party at Easyford Hall on June 24. "We try to hold one the last Wednesday of every month, so we'll have one in July and one in August. We may hold one more around the middle of September," he added.

Local church rings bell for missing Aboriginal women

Justine Kimoden
Western Review

In honour of the 1,181 missing Aboriginal women, the All Saints Anglican Church in town rang its bell 1,181 times starting on May 31 and ending on June 21.

"We have been ringing the church bell at noon a hundred times over the course of time up until June 21," said Rita Stagman, rector's warden of All Saints Anglican Church. "It is in response to the Anglican Church's desire to make sure people are well aware of the 1,181 murdered and missing Aboriginal women. We finished it on June 21 which is on National Aboriginal Day."

When asked why noon was chosen as the time of day when the bell was to be rung, Stagman said it is when the church can get the attention of most people in town.

"We are doing it at noon time because it is a time of day where most people are up and active," she said. "We also chose noon time because on Wednesday, we are able to meet and have a small service that we can have just to focus on our minds on the women that are murdered and missing, and also in line with the 4th and reconciliation committee's report to try to the forefront of the issue of the residential schools and things like that. It is also to try to make us more aware of the healing process that needs to happen for Canada as a whole and especially for the Aboriginal people."

The ringing of the bells, Stagman said, is a great way for the church to use their newly-completed bell tower.

"After ten years, we finally have our bell tower completed," Stagman said. "It had been put up in early June so finally it is a recognizable church in the community. We put the canopy out over the course of last summer and then put the steeple and the bell tower up there just this summer, so that completed the project."

Stagman said the All Saints Anglican Church will continue to pray for these 1,181 Aboriginal women even after the ringing of the bells.

"In our parish, we will continue to hold the people affected by the murders and the people affected by the residential school issue," she said. "Hold them in our thoughts and prayers that reconciliation and hope will be available for them."

Eldorado

Wow, three more weeks until summer holidays. Four more if you are staff. This last week is going to be very busy but very fun. Please, everybody have a very safe, restful and most of all fun, summer.

Summer is coming, summer is near, all of the school knows that summer is here.

We've cleaned out our lockers and outgrown our desks.

Our report cards will show how we did on our tests.

The halls will be quiet and ready for clearing, we know in September, they'll be shining and gleaming.

Our teachers are used to see us move on. We students are happy, no waking at dawn.

Save games and TV for rainy days. Have a great summer, go out and play.

Parents... There are 2 big tables loaded with clothing etc. from the lost and found boxes. PLEASE come and collect your children's missing things. Any items not claimed will be going to a local charity.

The lost and found bins are still burning at the seams with clothing, shoes, lunch-kits, containers, etc. Parents are encouraged to drop in and check if any of these items belong to their children. Due to limited storage, all unclaimed items will be donated to a charitable organization once school lets out for summer vacation.

School resumes Thursday, September 3rd. We have a performer booked for the first day of school: "Motivational Magic Steve Harner".

The show will begin at 1:45pm. Everyone is welcome to attend. From all of us here at Tomahawk School, have a safe and wonderful summer break. Enjoy many good times with your family and friends!

Brazeau Gymnastics bring home 2nd place

Special to the Review

June 20 was a very good day for the Brazeau Gymnastics Club's Artistic & Rhythmic teams, who headed to Edmonton for the Capital City Gymnastics. So You Think You Can Dance & Tumble Competition. The Artistic team took to the floor to perform their group routine. Their precise synchronized performance earned them

2nd Place finish.

"Once again our girls proved that their strong work ethic in the gym provides a podium result at competition," said Stuckenberg, one of the Brazeau Gymnastics Club coaches. Training commences in August for pre-competitive, recreational & preschool participants. Rhythmic gymnasts wrapped up their first competitive season on the podium on June 21.

Our group of six received First Place medals for their ball routine, meanwhile "Duo" and "Trio" free routines (without apparatus) received gold and silver respectively. Training for the 2015/2016 season will start up again August 17-20th with summer camps for recreational and competitive level rhythmic gymnasts with Coach Theresa.

One hundred and forty-four golfers participated in the 40th annual Kin Club golf tournament in support of STARS Air Ambulance. Kin Club President Brian Smith said the participants teed off at 10 a.m. on Saturday, and had breakfast, and had team photos taken at the putting green for keepsakes. After the golfers left the course, they were taken over to the Legion for a 5:30 p.m. supper and a silent auction with a few live auction items thrown in for good measure. At the end of the night, the tournament raised a total of $2,000 for STARS Air Ambulance. Smith stressed that every penny of it goes directly to STARS, and in the first five years, $115,000 was raised. Smith noted that STARS Air Ambulance has flown into Drayton Valley approximately 39 times this year and is the second most active community in all of Alberta where STARS is used. Prizes were also awarded in the evening for the team with the lowest score, the most honest team and holes-in-one.

Former Thunder goalie commits to U of A Golden Bears

Justine Kimodan
Western Review

Marc Olivier Daigle, former Drayton Valley Thunder goalie, commits to the University of Alberta Golden Bears.

"I am very happy to have the chance to go to the University of Alberta to pursue my hockey career and my academic future," Daigle said. "The University of Alberta has the best hockey program in the country and is an excellent place to prepare the life after hockey. I am happy to be a part of it."

Daigle is grateful for the opportunity and sees this as a stepping stone towards playing at a professional level.

"For me, playing for the University of Alberta is an amazing opportunity," he said. "I got in a program that has a winning tradition for a long time. By being a Golden Bear player, I give myself a chance to improve even more as a goalie and to have a shot at the pro level."

At the young age of four years old, Daigle started playing hockey.

"I got interested in the game of hockey by playing with my brothers, either it was mini stick, road hockey, or on the ice. We were always playing while we were growing up," he said. "I also got it from my parents who were watching a lot in the Habs games on television."

Daigle spent three years with the Drayton Valley Thunder and his most unforgettable memory is the time spent with his teammates.

"I have so many memories of my years in Drayton Valley. It's hard to put a finger on one specific thing that was the best but if I had to pick something, I would probably say all the time spent with the boys," he said. "Either it was at the rink or not, it was just always fun to be all together and to share different experiences with them. I have had the chance to play with great teammates and I have developed so many friendships that will last forever."

He said he is grateful to everyone involved in the Drayton Valley Thunder organization.

"I would like to thank my teammates and coaches that I had over the last three years. Drayton Valley was an amazing journey for me and they are all a big part of why I liked it so much," Daigle said. "Thank you to my coaches. They took a risk on bringing me in Alberta from Quebec. They gave me the opportunity to prove myself as a goalie and gave me all the elements needed to improve everyday on and off the ice."

In addition, Daigle said he will miss his billet family the most.

"I have had the chance to live with the Dearmans for three years and I could not have asked for a better place to stay," he said. "They made me feel at home, they considered me like one of the family, and they helped me grow as a hockey player but also as an individual. They always made everything they could to make sure I was okay and were always there to support me in all situations."

I will miss them but I know I would not take long before I come visit them."

Daigle plans to prepare for the next step on his hockey career.

"What's next for me is just a busy summer," he said. "Work out on and off the ice to be ready for the upcoming season and spending time with family and friends before moving back to Alberta."

The Geography of Brazeau
County at 30,000 Feet: A
Geography of Hope

I love geography - the phenomena of Earth!

When I was 15, a half century ago, I had a job for 30 to 40 hours a week as a camp boy and cook for a small group of timber cruisers. We would fly in to very remote wilderness areas in the best bush plane ever built, the deLaviand Beaver with pontoons. The beaver is not a dainty little airplane that appeals to naïf-do-wells. It is barrel-chested, noisy and no-nonsense and seemed to me like it could eat Cessnas for snacks. Flying in that Beaver as a kid opened my eyes to geography. It gave me perspective, insight, knowledge and inspiration. From then on, I wanted and needed to know where I was from 2,000 to 10,000 feet above the ground and understand what the context was.

What are the large-scale realities of Brazeau region's geography?

At the 30,000 foot level, at over 1,000 square kilometres, Brazeau County represents a very small portion of the Province of Alberta - approximately 0.5% of Alberta. Despite its small size, however, the County "punches above its weight" as it has an abundance of natural and man-made features that create many opportunities for outdoor recreation, tourism and conservation.

Some of these large scale natural features include parks, rivers, streams, wetlands and associated riparian areas, important environmentally significant areas recognized by the Government of Alberta, and huge areas of public forested green space.

For example, we're very lucky to have the Eagle Point Provincial Park and Blue Rapids Provincial Recreation Area on our doorstep. This parks system is really the crown jewel of the Brazeau region in terms of natural features, wildlife and outdoor recreation and tourism opportunities. In addition to Eagle Point and Blue Rapids parks system, there are 17 separate ¼ section and ¼ section parcels of provincially-designated conservation areas, termed Natural Areas that lie scattered throughout the agricultural lands in the eastern portion of the County. And about 60% of Brazeau County consists of the Cypress Hills and to the west into the foothills. All of these parks and crown land chunks east of Drayton Valley and crown lands in the west provide an incredible distribution and variety of outdoor recreation opportunities for all County residents - they provide opportunities for linking trails and creating trail networks. They also contain rich pockets of wildlife.

The Pembina Provincial Grazing Reserve encompasses 30 sq miles of provincial public land in the western portion of Brazeau County, and largely consist of tame pastures with some native vegetation communities. The reserve was opened in 1985 with the main purpose of providing improved forage for grazing livestock and habitat for upland big game. Recreational use of the grazing reserve is encouraged, subject to access regulations and specific access conditions for this grazing reserve. Permission for access is required.

The Brazeau Reservoir, built by TransAlta in the late 1960s, is a large man-made lake at 13 kilometres from the town of Drayton Valley. It is 6 kilometres long and is Brazeau County's largest lake. As such, it has water-based and camping recreation and tourism opportunities.

The three major river systems in the Brazeau region - 100 km of the nationally-significant North Saskatchewan River, 120 km of the winding and beautiful Pembina River and 50 km of the rugged Brazeau River - these provide lots of opportunities for river and river valley-based recreation and are important corridors for wildlife movements.

Also at the 30,000 ft level, Brazeau County contains Alberta's 21 major biological regions. This is important because it is where these biological regions meet that we have the greatest amount of wildlife diversity.

And finally, the geographic proximity of Brazeau County to Edmonton, with over 1 million residents and hundreds of thousands of annual tourists and linked by the North Saskatchewan River provides some yet-to-realize tourism opportunities, maybe substantial opportunities.

These are the large-scale geographic opportunities. Now can the residents of Brazeau County and Drayton Valley collectively take advantage of our considerable natural assets and maximize outdoor recreation and tourism opportunities, and therefore maximize economic opportunities while conserving our capital - the wildlife and natural features.

My view is that the opportunities, based on the natural features and geography of the Brazeau region, are mostly unrealized. And it will take collective, collaborative and progressive effort by Brazeau County and the Town of Drayton Valley, along with local businesses and provincial agencies, and the Eagle Point-Blue Rapids Parks Council, to make Brazeau area a leader in conservation, outdoor recreation and tourism.

Brazeau region has much wild country. As the famed western author Wallace Stegner said in 1960: "wild country... can be a means of reassuring ourselves of our sanity as creatures, a part of the geography of hope."

At the Eagle Point - Blue Rapids Parks Council, we're interested in pursuing some of these opportunities together with others for the benefit of the resident here and for all Albertans... as part of our geography of hope.

As a footnote: As I also like the view from well-below 30,000 feet, I have been looking into the possibility of Parks Council acquiring or borrowing a "conservation drone". To find out what this is all about, watch this excellent Ted Talk at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mgfGNC8tI>. I salivate over the thought of using a conservation drone to explore our parks system, monitor wildlife, provide strategic planning information and investigate environmental incidents, both natural and man-made. Update on Humans Helping Humans Foundation next project

Cathy Weisman
Western Review

At the June 24 regular meeting, Drayton Valley Town Council heard an update on the latest building project from Humans Helping Humans Foundation President Dick Lamden.

Lamden reported two construction sites for applicants to live in the new duplexes are still open for another two weeks.

"We've had quite a number of applications, and we'll have a shortlist in the ground within the next week or two. We're already a month and a half behind schedule," said Lamden. He added that Drayton Free Service worked to remove the trees from the lot located at 5001 and 5003, 45th Street, and a local company, C.H. Homes, offered to assist with paper work for Alberta Home Builders.

This duplex will be similar to the last one built two years ago, but will have a bigger bathroom and a slightly smaller section.

Lamden said the foundation is looking for people to help out on Build Day, scheduled to take place in mid to late August, and is currently advertising for people to do day on their list.

"We're expecting to see about 20 new friends on Build Day," said Lamden.

He also spoke a bit about the upcoming 10th anniversary of the foundation's move to its new location, for land and materials, and joked with Mayor Glenn McLean about the new building's location.

"That's routine (the job) is worth the price of admission alone," suggested McLean. He honoured to be asked, but for the two minutes he'll be dancing with Valérie (Lindholm), it will be memorable.

Lamden responded that the Mayor, "I'll dance" will be performing a tango with Valérie, and that too, will be worth the price of admission.

Sharon In Dryden, the fundraiser, is loosely based on Dancing with the Stars and was first initiated in Red Deer, where it lasted 8-2010 as one night.

Edna Euphemia Heighington
May 16, 1918 - June 21, 2015
Edna Euphemia Heighington passed away peacefully in Red Deer at the age of 97 years. Edna was predeceased by her husband of 51 years, Oliver James Heighington, brothers: Alan, Ivan, Tommy, Lloyd, and Murray; sisters: Fanny and Mary; daughter, Irene; and grandson, Kent. Left to mourn are her sons: Keith (Marilyn), Dale (Evelyn), and Larry (Maureen), as well as grandchildren, Lea, Derek, Koryn (Gordie), Vincent (Sherry), Janice (Dan), Lori, Deamond, and her great-grandchildren, Alexandra, Rebecca, Julian, Ashely, Brandon, Matthew, and Heather. Edna was born in Whitewood, Saskatchewan. Her mom passed away at a young age so Edna took the role of caregiver to her dad and siblings. This is a role that she loved and carried forward her entire life with her family and everyone she met. When she was 18 years of age, she traveled across Canada to Victoria, British Columbia, to become a nanny first, then worked as a dietician in Victoria General Hospital. This is where she met her husband, Oliver, who was serving in the army. Years later, they moved to Calgary where they had a general store. After having their first son, they decided to settle down and buy a farm in the Breton area. They moved to Red Deer in the 1960's. Throughout her life, Edna spent many hours volunteering for her local Elks Club and Ladies Legion Auxiliary. She was an avid bowler and won numerous trophies. Edna had the luck of the Irish! If she wasn't winning at bingo, she was winning the meal draw at her favorite table in the Legion surrounded by friends and family. As lucky as she was, she didn't get a 29 hand in cribbage until she was 96 years of age. Edna will be sorely missed by all those who knew her and whose lives she touched. Special thanks to the staff at Bethany College for taking such good care of her during her stay there. A Funeral Service was held at Eventide Funeral Chapel, 4820-45 Street, Red Deer, on Thursday, June 25, 2015 at 1:00 p.m. Memorial tributes in Edna's honour may be made directly to the Heart & Stroke Foundation, 202, 5913-50 Avenue, Red Deer, Alberta, T4N 4C4. Condolences may be forwarded to the family by visiting www.eventidefuneralschapels.com. Arrangements entrusted to EVENTIDE FUNERAL CHAPEL 4820 - 45 Street, Red Deer, Phone (403) 347-2222.

Edna Euphemia Heighington
May 16, 1918 - June 21, 2015
Edna Euphemia Heighington passed away peacefully in Red Deer at the age of 97 years. Edna was predeceased by her husband of 51 years, Oliver James Heighington, brothers: Alan, Ivan, Tommy, Lloyd, and Murray; sisters: Fanny and Mary; daughter, Irene; and grandson, Kent. Left to mourn are her sons: Keith (Marilyn), Dale (Evelyn), and Larry (Maureen), as well as grandchildren, Lea, Derek, Koryn (Gordie), Vincent (Sherry), Janice (Dan), Lori, Deamond, and her great-grandchildren, Alexandra, Rebecca, Julian, Ashely, Brandon, Matthew, and Heather. Edna was born in Whitewood, Saskatchewan. Her mom passed away at a young age so Edna took the role of caregiver to her dad and siblings. This is a role that she loved and carried forward her entire life with her family and everyone she met. When she was 18 years of age, she traveled across Canada to Victoria, British Columbia, to become a nanny first, then worked as a dietician in Victoria General Hospital. This is where she met her husband, Oliver, who was serving in the army. Years later, they moved to Calgary where they had a general store. After having their first son, they decided to settle down and buy a farm in the Breton area. They moved to Red Deer in the 1960's. Throughout her life, Edna spent many hours volunteering for her local Elks Club and Ladies Legion Auxiliary. She was an avid bowler and won numerous trophies. Edna had the luck of the Irish! If she wasn't winning at bingo, she was winning the meal draw at her favorite table in the Legion surrounded by friends and family. As lucky as she was, she didn't get a 29 hand in cribbage until she was 96 years of age. Edna will be sorely missed by all those who knew her and whose lives she touched.
